Most of them consist of a square or oblong room, perpendicular to the sides of which the niches for the bodies extend six or seven feet into the rock. I have counted sixteen of these in a single room; but we need not suppose that they were all hewn at the same time, or even in the same age. A family selected a cave, if one could be found, which they trimmed and squared, and cut in it as many niches as they expected to need. Their posterity would hew new ones as occasion required; and when the original room was full, they cut out another behind, or at the side of it, and thus went on enlarging from generation to generation, as long as the family existed. No. XX. GEOGRAPHICAL LESSON. DIVISION OF THE SEASONS, We have reference to these (Gen. viii. 22): seed time and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter. The year was thus divided into seasons each of about two months. As a pastoral and agricultural people, the Israelites adopted these divisions, and they are still retained by the Arabs. 1. Seed Time extended from the early part of October to the beginning of December. At the commencement of this period the latter grapes are gathered in, the land is ploughed, and the wheat and barley sown. The weather at this season is frequently cloudy and misty, though it is often warm, and sometimes even...
